

Thompson, Henry Yates. An Englishman in the American Civil War: The Diaries of Henry Yates Thompson. Edited by Christopher Chancellor. New York: New York University Press, 1971.

Edward Everett, Springfield rifle, 37ff
Lincoln and Seward, 41
Union conscription, 41
Charles Eliot Norton, 42
Nathaniel Hawthorne, racial prejudice, 46
Ralph Waldo Emerson, 46
Danger of divisions in the northern states, New York draft riots, Copperheads, 52
British shipbuilding, Laird rams, 55
Kentucky neutrality, John Hunt Morgan, 59-60
Abolitionist Samuel J. May, underground railroad, 62
Kentucky Unionist, 72
Lincoln, 63
Northern free blacks, Jefferson Davis may soon be refugee, 65
Wendell Phillips, 65-66
Charles Eliot Norton, 66
Grant and alcohol, 66-67
Deaths and wounds of soldiers in one family, 68
Silliman, Sumner, England, 69-70
Laird rams, 82-83
Chase, currency, presidential election, 84-85
Black funeral, New York, 83, 85
Northern ideals, southern slavery, 86
Stanton, 88-89
Slavery, 89-90
Black recruiting in Maryland, 91
Maryland slave quarters, punishments, 92-94
Planters and behavior of Maryland slaves, 94-95
Black troops, 95
Lincoln and guard, 95
General Martindale, black troops, 98-99
Slavery in Maryland, ungrateful blacks, craving for freedom, 103-5
Ohio election, Vallandigham, 105
Schools in Chicago, 107
Tough westerners make good soldiers, 109
Lincoln, Stanton, Halleck, Grant, western troops, 114
London press, blind, American War, 119
Slaves, 136
Sanitary Commission, 141, 144-45
Chattanooga, Grant, 141ff
Lookout Mountain, 146-47
Chattanooga fight, 146ff
Grant, 150ff

Sanitary Commission, 163
Colonel Thomas Wood, 170-71
Slavery, 171