

Welch, Spencer. A Confederate Surgeon's Letters to His Wife. New York: Neale Publishing, 1911.
13th South Carolina

Picket firing, 9
Marching, mud, water, 10-11
Horrors and glory of battlefield, 12
Wounded described, 13
Seven Days campaign, 13-17
Gaines's Mill, 15-16
Dead on battlefield, 16
Wounded after battle, 16-17
Stonewall Jackson, 18
Second Bull Run, Manassas campaign, 18-31
Confederate troops pillaging and plundering fields, 20
Jackson's troops, poor clothes, 20-21
Dead bodies stripped, 27
Civilians fleeing battlefield, 28
March, no shoes, blankets, 31
Fredericksburg, 38
Yankee prisoners, morale, 39-40
Snowball fight, 42
Confidence, 43
Food, 44
Desertion, execution, 44-45, 78-80
Health, disease, 45-46
Chancellorsville, 49-53
Exchanging newspapers with Yankees, 53
Profane man argues scripture with chaplain at night, 53-54
Women in Shenandoah Valley, 55
Gettysburg campaign, 55-72
Confident that Lee with whip Hooker, 56-57
Meade's intentions, 73
Health and food, 74-75
Slaves, 76-77
Marching and shoes, 77
Desolation in Virginia, 81-82
Chaplain, prisoner returns, praises treatment by Yankees, 82-83
John Hunt Morgan, 86-87
Lee, strategy, confidence, 92
Overland campaign, 93-
Wilderness, 93-95
Scavenging the battlefield, 95
Spotsylvania Courthouse, 96-98
Petersburg, 100ff
Grant and Lincoln's reelection, 107

Men from Richmond, officers, sent into the Petersburg trenches, 108-9

Chaplains, conscription, 109

Fanatics and war, 112-13

Election of 1864, 114

Appomattox, 117-20

Morale and foolish war, 121