

Foster, Samuel T. One of Cleburne's Command: The Civil War Reminiscences and Diary of Captain Samuel T. Foster, Granbury's Texas Brigade, CSA. Edited by Norman D. Brown. Austin: University of Texas Press, 1980.

Johnston, slaves working on breastworks, 71
Atlanta campaign, 71ff
Resaca, 76ff
Pickett's Mill, 82ff
Death of Leonidas Polk, 94
Soldier killed by Yankee cannon fire, 100
Breastworks, 100-101
Retreating toward Atlanta, 101
Breastworks built by slaves, 102
Removal of Johnston, appointment of Hood, Jefferson Davis, 105-7
Battle of Atlanta, 110ff
Death of James B. McPherson, 111-12
Jefferson Davis, John B. Hood, Governor Lubbock, 132-33
Jefferson Davis, 135
Hood's Tennessee campaign, 145ff
Battle at Spring Hill, 147
Battle of Franklin, 148ff
Hood, 150-51
Battle of Nashville, 154-56
Christmas, 159
Joseph Johnston, 161-62
General Lee's surrender, 163-64
Demoralization in the army, 163-64
Rumor of United States Recognition of the Confederacy, 165
Rumors about reunion, 166
French, Mexico, reunion, 167
Sherman and Johnston, Andrew Johnson, 167-69
Thoughts about course of the war and all the dead, 169-70
Nature of the Union, 170
Slavery and change of attitude, 171
Lincoln assassination, 172
Thoughts about slavery and future, 172
Ignorant people, 174-75