

Jessup, Harlan R. The Painful News I Have to Write: Letters and Diaries of Four Hite Brothers of Page County in the Service of the Confederacy. Baltimore: Butternut and Blue, 1998.

Women and soldiers, 8
House, barracks, straw, 8
Food, 8
Moral company, liquor, swearing, 10
Disillusionment of troops, 11
Drill, 11-12
First Bull Run, Manassas, 18-20
Wounded brother, 20
Furlough, 22
Women, socializing, 26
Food, 27-28
Picket firing, 31
AWOL sentences, desertion, 33, 47, 52-55
Review, Johnston, Beauregard, 33
Alcohol, 33
Disagreeable weather and tents, 38
Deserters and conscription, 40
Food prices, 43
Disease, soldiers, 50
Duty, liberty, home, 56
Death of brother, funeral, 61
Christmas, 72
Mason and Slidell, England, 72
Length of war, women doing different things, 82
Rumor of England recognizing Confederacy, 87
Religion and war, preaching in army, 88
Jackson's valley campaign, 93ff
Winchester, 93-94
Chaplain sermon, 94
AWOL soldiers, 95, 98
Battle of Kernstown, 96-97
Seven Days campaign, 104
Yankee depredations in Page County, 108-110
Cedar Mountain, 112-13
Second Bull Run, Manassas, 114
Antietam campaign, 115-19
Response of Maryland people, 115-16
Harpers Ferry, 116-17
Taken prisoner, 119
Deserters, executions, 121
Yankee deserters and Emancipation Proclamation, Yankee morale, 129
Chancellorsville campaign, 137-40
Religious meetings, chaplains, 138

Stragglers, 139
Gettysburg, 145-49
Death of son at Gettysburg, 145-48
Army of Northern Virginia morale, 148
Petersburg, 163ff
Desertion, 165
Wilderness, Spotsylvania, 167-71
Morale, 172
Slavery, England and France, black soldiers, 173
Provisions for soldiers and horses, 176-77
Prices, currency, barbaric Confederate soldiers, 177