

Bryant, Edwin E. History of the Third Regiment of Wisconsin Veteran Volunteer Infantry, 1861-1865. Madison, Wisc.: Published by the Veteran Association of the Regiment, 1891.

CHAPTER I.

The Organization — The call for troops — Companies offering services — Randall's zealous action — Orders assigning companies to Third regiment — Commissioning of Hamilton Ruger and other field officers 1-9

CHAPTER II.

The Rendezvous — The regiment ordered into camp at Fond du Lac — Companies arrive — Description of first camp life — Mustered in — Ordered to Hagerstown — Uniforms furnished 10-14

CHAPTER III.

The Departure — Leave Fond du Lac by rail — Incidents along the route — Feasted at Toledo, Erie, Buffalo, Elmira and Williamsport, Pa.— Reach Hagerstown 14-15

CHAPTER IV.

Our First Marches — First camp at Hagerstown — Knight's valiant defense — Regiment armed — Arms described — Ordered to march — Heat and dust - Camp near Rohrersville — Move to camp Pinkney - Description of scenery — Sickness in camp — Bull Run battle heard - - Patterson falls back — Banks assigned to command- Regiment called to arms — Hamilton made brigadier - His brigade Ruger promoted — Colored men in camp ~ March to Buckeystown — to Edward's Ferry - - to Barnesville — to Edward's Ferry again — to Darnestown 16-24

CHAPTER V.

To Frederick — March to Frederick Town described — Kindly welcomed — Ragged boys - The secessionist members of the legislature arrested 24-28

CHAPTER VI.

The Skirmish at Bolivar- Companies A, C and H sent to Harpers Ferry - - Work in the morning - Wheat from flour mills — A visit from Ashby 's men - Harper's Ferry described - Picketing on Bolivar Foraging Ashby attacks — Marvin's fight on the picket line Geary on the scene - Bertram on Ashby's flank — Charging on the gun — O'Brien covers a retreat — Cavalry among the men — Casualties — The enemy's guns on Loudoun Heights Ashby finally driven away — Great cry over small fight Return to Frederick- - Military heroes receive an ovation 28-35

CHAPTER VII Back to the River - Ordered to Edward's Ferry -to Conrad's Ferry — In sight of the Ball's Bluff region — To Poolville — to Darnestown again — Camp Jo. Holt in the woods 36-37

CHAPTER VIII Winter Quarters -March towards Frederick A race with the Ninth New York — A cold bivouac The cantonment in the woods — Ruger provost marshal of Frederick — Regiment on provost duty - - Patrol duty not agreeable — Promotions and changes 37-39

CHAPTER IX.

The Campaign in the Valley — Banks sent into Shenandoah Valley - Regiment moves to Harper's Ferry - Encamped in Camp Pinkney again Pontoon bridge laid — Cross the Potomac - - Camp on Bolivar Heights — Move to Charleston — Visited by McClellan Occupancy of the churches — Forward movement on Winchester Jackson meditates resistance, but finally retires — Hamilton's dispositions for attack — Advance in line of battle - Surrender of the town by its mayor - The brigade organized — Shields pursues — Description of the valley — Banks ordered to Manassas Regiment marches through Snicker's Gap - - Shields falls back to Winchester- Jackson follows and attacks Banks returns to Winchester — Regiment recalled and marches to Strasburg — Thence to Harrisonburg — Bad weather — Forging the North fork — March up the valley — Return to New Market — Over the Massanuttons — Incidents — The Dunkards. 39-51

CHAPTER X.

The Skirmish at Buckton — Recross the Massanuttons — Idle camp life — Jackson plans mischief — The' position of our troops May 23rd — Kenly attacked at Front Royal — Capt. Hubbard's brave defense at Buckton bridge — Jackson's plans and his advance — Regiment sent to Hubbard's relief. 51-56

CHAPTER XI.

Retreat From Strasburg — Kenly's fight and retreat — Jackson seeks to cut Banks off — Banks thinks of remaining but decides to retreat — The retreat — Stirring scenes — Stampeded teamsters — A dilapidated theatrical troupe — Jackson cuts the column — Gordon sent to cover retreat — Gallant conduct of Second Massachusetts and Twenty-seventh Indiana — Ashby's men stop to pillage — Gordon fights the rebel advance — Delays them several hours — Dispositions at Winchester — Banks goes to bed — Jackson gets ready for battle 56-63

CHAPTER XII.

The Battle of Winchester — Donnelly and Gordon dispose their brigades — Position of troops — Battle begins at dawn — Donnelly's brigade give a bloody welcome to Ewell — Gordon's brigade stoutly stands but is enveloped — Movements of troops on both sides — The Third in action — Fights steadily — The brigade falls back — Close pursuit — Melee in streets — Many men captured — The retreat — Casualties — Jackson's booty — Good words for "the Third — Efforts to trap Jackson — He leaves the lower valley — Banks re-enters the valley — Third moves to near Front Royal 63-72

CHAPTER XIII.

The Campaign Under Pope — The army of Virginia organized — Pope in command — He concentrates — Advance from Front Royal over Blue Ridge to Washington — A hot march — To Washington — Camp there — Ordered to Culpepper — The situation 72-75

CHAPTER XIV.

The Battle of Cedar Mountain — March of Gordon's brigade to Culpepper — Thence to Cedar Run — Banks' orders — A torrid day — Position of troops — Battle opens — Third sent out as skirmishers — The rebels arrive on the field — Description of locality — The position of the enemy — The artillery engaged — Crawford's attack — Ruger joins him — Advance of Crawford — He strikes enemy quite unexpectedly — The Third becomes engaged in little, brushy field — Terrific fire — Line falls back — Death of Col. Crane — Crawford's brigade is overwhelmed^ Tenth Maine sent in — Gordon's brigade moves up and becomes engaged — Heavy firing — Gordon's battle — Crowded off the field — Casualties — Comments on the battle — Wounded brought off under flag of truce — Death of Capt. O'Brien — Return to Culpepper 75-97

CHAPTER XV.

Pope's Retreat — Pope's headquarters at Cedar Mountain — Line on Rapidan — Lee moves to take him in flank — Pope falls back, across Rappahannock — Third at Beverly Ford — Exciting incidents — Artillery fight — Stuart's raid — Banks moves toward Sulphur Springs — Jackson moves around to strike Pope in rear -Pope's desperate efforts to "bag" Jackson — Banks assigned to the guarding of railroad trains — His orders — The battles of Gainesville, Second Bull Run or Manassas — Gallantry of Gibbons' Iron brigade — Banks compelled to bum a large number of trains at Bristoe Station — Retreat by way of Brentsville — In support at battle of Chantilly — Description of battle — Retreat towards Washington — Gordon's brigade ordered back — He decides not to execute order — Bivouac At Fort Worth — March into Maryland — Camp at Tenallytown — Rockville — Changes in commanders — Disgusted soldiers 97-119

CHAPTER XVI.

Under McClellan — Antietam — Pope relieved — Banks assigned to defenses of Washington — Twelfth corps to Sumner — New York and New Jersey regiments assigned to brigade — Stonewall Jackson heads advance in invasion of Maryland — Regiment moves northward — Through Frederick — Over Catoctin and South mountains — Night march on mountain side — General Mansfield assigned to command and joins corps — McClellan passes the column — Third's position the night before the battle — Hooker opens the battle — Williams' division moves up into the battle — Scenes in the morning — Description of the ground and battlefield — Gordon's brigade becomes engaged — Narrative of engagement — Mansfield falls — Third Wisconsin opens fire — Its deadly exposure — Parts performed by the regiments of the brigade — Sedgwick comes in — Third withdrawn to give room — Sedgwick and Sumner's corps repulsed — Casualties in regiment — Comments on conduct of regiments — Federal loss — Scenes next day — Again ready for battle — Lee retreats — Williams' division moves to Maryland Heights 119-135

CHAPTER XVII.

The Winter of '63 — In camp under Maryland Heights — Heights fortified — President Lincoln reviews regiment — His awkward horsemanship — Gen. Slocum assigned to command — Ruger in command of a brigade — Capt. Hawley made lieutenant colonel — Other promotions — Preparations for winter — Disappointed officers and their wives — Orders to march to the Rappahannock — A dismal march — The mud campaign — Move to Stafford, C. H. — Winter life — Regiment is given "reward of merit" — Preparations for spring campaign 136-142

CHAPTER XVIII.

Chancellorsville — Campaign opens — Hooker's plans — Successful movements of the Eleventh and Twelfth corps — Cross at Kelly's Ford — Third and Ruger's brigade push on to Germanna Ford — Capture of Confederates bridge guard — Forging the river — Exciting scenes

— Move on to Chancellorsville — Position taken — Movements for attack — Hooker recalls advance — Third returns to first position — Skirmish — Death of Lieut. Col. Scott — A Zouave regiment runs — General hopeful feeling — A muster for pay — A rebel train seen in the distance — Birney ordered to charge — Ruger thrown forward — The Third lost in the woods — Hear the rout of the Eleventh corps — The Third hastens toward the firing — Lee and Jackson plan a blow on Hooker's left — Jackson's march — Assault on Eleventh corps in unprotected flank — The rout of the corps — Williams' division thrown in to check Jackson — Position of the Third — An attack in the night — Artillery fire over our heads — Effect of it on rebels — Death of General Jackson — A chilly bivouac — The attack on the morning of May 3rd — A hard fight — Brigade withdrawn — A march before thirty cannon — "A miss is as good as a mile " — New positions — The woods on fire — Retreat in the night — Lonely remaining on out post — March in mud to Stafford 142-163

CHAPTER XIX.

The Battle of Beverly Ford — An idle month in camp — Lee's movement to Culpepper — A reconaissance ordered — Pleasanton's cavalry to be " stiffened " with infantry — The Third is detailed as stiffening — March to Beverly Ford — Bivouac in the woods — Cross and surprise the enemy — Stuart's cavalry have a grand review the day before — The battle opens — The infantry skirmish — Cavalry charges — Activity of infantry — Stevenson and Oakey's flank movement on a dismounted regiment of rebel cavalry — Gregg's movement — We retire across river — Casualties 163-173

CHAPTER XXI.

The Battle of Gettysburg — March from Rappahannock — Deserters shot at Leesburg — Into Maryland — Exciting news — Hooker relieved — Meade in command — Army moves northward — March of the Third — Description of field at Gettysburg — Buford reaches Gettysburg June 30 — Resolves to hold it — Battle of first day — Williams' division hurried forward — On the field — First position — Put in the line on the right — Position explained — The Second day — Williams' division sent to the left — Brilliant charge of Lockwood's brigade — Geary strays off — Mischief in our absence — The division sent back — Runs into rebel line — Positions arranged — Battle at dawn — Charge of the Second Massachusetts and Twenty-seventh Indiana — Brave men fall — The general charge — Rebels dislodged from Gulp's Hill — The great cannonade — The advance of Picket's men — A magnificent sight — Repulse and great captures — Joy on the Union line — The bivouac among the wounded and dead — Ghastly scenes — Movements next day — Casualties — Lee's great wagon train of wounded — We leave the gory field 174-207

CHAPTER XXII.

Journeyings — From Gettysburg via Frederick and Crampton's Gap into the Antietam Valley — Close around Lee at Williamsport — Position of Williams' division — Ready for assault — Lee retires — Pursuit — Falling Waters — Kilpatrick's captures — March to Sandy Hook — To "Rappahannock again " — Marches to Kelly's Ford — Sent to New York by sea — Bivouac in City Hall Park — A pleasant stay — Return to Kelly's Ford — On the Rapidan — Revival in rebel camp — Sudden orders — Eleventh and Twelfth corps sent west — The long journey by rail — Incidents in Ohio — Reach Stevenson, Ala. — Sent back to Bell Buckle — A chase on foot after Wheeler's cavalry — Ramblings — Settle down at Wartrace 208-219

CHAPTER XXIII.

Re-enlistment — Order calling for enlistment — The regiment veterans— The furlough — Recruitment of Regiment — Good words for regiment at home 220-223

CHAPTER XXIV.

Again to the Field — From Madison to Tullahoma — Thence to Fayetteville — The hunt for guerillas — The atrocities of bushwhackers — Re-organizing county government — Strength of command 223-228

CHAPTER XXV.

On to Atlanta — Resaca — Plans for campaign of 1864 — Sherman to knock Jo. Johnston — Concentration and advance — March from Fayetteville to Tullahoma — Thence to Bridgeport — Through Nickajack Gap by " candle light" — Thence the Snake Creek Gap to Resaca — Battle of Resaca — Casualties — The two chaplains fall — Catching the itch 228-235

CHAPTER XXVI.

On to Atlanta — New Hope Church — Resaca abandoned — Cross the rivers Oostenaula and Coosawattie — On to Cassville — Preparing for battle — Cassville people unhappy — Cross the Etowah — Muddy march up the Euharlee valley — Recalled to Geary's help — Battle of New Hope Church — A bloody engagement — Casualties — Death of Capt. Hunter — Wounding of Capt. Ruger — Several days of hard fighting — Moving out of "Hell-hole" — Under Pine mountain— Under Lost mountain — Before Kennesaw — Heavy shelling — Roaring days — Lines advanced — Third down west of Marietta. . 236-245

CHAPTER XXVII.

On to Atlanta— Kulp's Farm— Before Kennesaw— Third at Kulp's Farm — Description — Positions of troops — Hood attacks Hooker — A terribly bloody repulse — A panic in the night — Work on the picket line — Rain and mud — The assault on Kennesaw — Truce and burial of the dead, 246-251

CHAPTER XXVIII.

On to Atlanta — Peach Tree Creek — Kennesaw abandoned — Sherman follows — Advance of the Third — On the Chattahoochee — Rest, blackberries and boiled clothes — Truces on picket line — Advance across river and over Peach Tree Creek — Battle of Peach Tree Creek — Casualties — Importance of the battle 251-256

CHAPTER XXIX.

'The fall of Atlanta. Movements on 21st July — Rebel picket pushed back — Brisk fighting on the left — Advance of picket up close to rebel works — Capt. Hinkley's story — The battle of the 22d — Third in the line of investment — Breast works thrown up — Trenches how constructed — Death of Captain Orton — The Thirteenth New Jersey's gallant exploit — Battle of Ezra Church — Hooker relieved — Capture of rebel picket line Truces on line — Duty of videttes — Life in the trenches — Tormented with flies —Hawley's vigilance — Music at night — Shells and dangers — Officers running the gauntlet for meals — The change comes —

Twentieth Corps to the Chattahoochee — Others to the right — Withdrawing the picket — The Third has good time on the river — Reconnaissances — Slocum's return — Explosions heard — Atlanta found evacuated — Twentieth corps enters city — Close of campaign — Twentieth corps losses and achievements — Losses in Third — Glory of the campaign 257-271

CHAPTER XXX.

Atlanta is Ours. Regiment in camp — Reviews and rest — Repairs and drill — Fortifications — Foraging expeditions and great sport — Recruits and Indians — Reconnoisance — Re-organization — Election — Preparation for the great march — Who were to go 272-277

CHAPTER XXXI.

The March to the Sea. — The march out from Atlanta — Strange scene — Camp at Stone Mountain — Foraging begins — Booty on bayonets — Captures of foragers — Rains set in — Lifting wagons out of mud — Blankets frozen stiff — Cross the Oconee — The details for foraging — Bravery of the foragers — Sherman shows the boys how to issue sorghum — Game cocks — The negroes follow — Queer scenes--The entry into Milledgeville — The Third as provost guard — A day's occupation — The legislature flee — Their places taken by the Union men — A haul of tobacco — The march resumed — Bridges built — A skirmish with cavalry through Sandersville — On to the railroad — Destroying track — " Doughnuts made of rails — Destruction of bridge timber and lumber yards — Crossing the Ogeechee — Hard roads and poor fare — Night marches and torch lighted camps — Bummers mourning horses and cursing Asmussen— March bears toward Savannah — Enemy found at Monteith swamp — Flank movements in deep water - - Haughawout's charge — The prisoners arbitrate the issue, who was their captor --Scampering rebels -No fair race -On to Savannah -Run against fortifications -The great march ended — A great picnic for the Third 277-292

CHAPTER XXXI.

Argyle Island. — The Third Wisconsin ordered across the channel to Argyle Island - Crossing in skiffs — Capture of the Ida by the One Hundred and Fiftieth New York — Gunboats come down-- A short battle Gunboats retire- -An armed tender disabled and captured — The Third boys wade out and board her - - Capture in South Carolina - Wheeler's cavalry on hand - An expedition across - - Company E shivering and shooting — Marksmanship under difflculties — Shelled by gunboats — Rice threshing for a living - - A barge captured - Picket duty under water - Ugly negroes - - A movement into South Carolina — Strong forces oppose — Stevenson wounded - Part of Third in a tight place — " Old Second " come to rescue - Savannah evacuated — Back into Georgia — Camp in the city 292-299

CHAPTER XXXII.

Through The Carolinas - Rest at Savannah - A grand review — Making a parson pray for Pres. Lincoln — Preparing for a move - Readjusting commands - - Hawley has the brigade — Bridge built - Into South Carolina - A cold, damp reception — The "tars" bid them good-bye — To Purysburg — Buried in a flood ~ On to Sister's Ferry — Obstructed roads — Skirmishing — Corduroying - - The cheerfulness of the men — Building bridges neck deep - Over the Salkehatchie — A bet on railroad destroying-- Marching to the westward — Then over the icy coated swamps and forks of the Edisto - Over the Saluda and Broad rivers -Among the "high hills of Santee — Coffee ration suspended — Anecdotes of Sherman — His camp — His style of smoking — Geary at Winnsboro - The town saved from burning — Foragers busy — Wanton destruction of property — A hard remedy for causing civil war — Crossing the broad Wateree — Passing Hanging Rock -Marching through pine forests — Camp scenes — To the front as skirmishers --Heading for Cheraw — Over the Great Pedee — Into the pitch and turpentine region — Marching through burning forests — A turpentine distillery and pond set on fire — March through Gum swamp — Bridging the streams — Crossing Juniper creek — Fayetteville reached 300-315

CHAPTER XXXIV.

AVERYSBOBO — Camp in a churchyard — To Kilpatrick's aid — A march in mud and darkness — The battle of Averysboro — Skirmishing in mud - Col. Hawley's report — Casualties — The movements of the armies 315-20

CHAPTER XXXV.

Bentonville — The Third corduroying and bridging — Carlin's division "knocked back" — The enemy's sharp attack - Williams' division brought up Hawley's brigade in line - Thirteenth New Jersey do excellent work — Hazen arrives - Fifteenth corps up - Enemy flees On to Goldsboro 321-27

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Marching Home- Rest at Goldsboro — Full rations again Army reorganized Convalescents up - March to Raleigh - The news of Lee's surrender — " We must push Jo. Johnston now" March to Richmond Scenes on the way Feeding the Confederates -March through Richmond -Through old battle fields at Spotsylvania and Chancellorsville - Skeletons and other ghastly sights -The Blue Ridge once more - Old landmarks -At Washington - The Grand Review — Red Star division bears off the palm — Eager to be mustered out — The Mexican scare— Farewell words with the Old Second" Massachusetts - Parting with other regiments - Lonesome camp — Move to Louisville — Promotions -Camp in Crittenden place -Paid off Mustered out Started for home - Break ranks forever -The flag of the division without a bearer 327-44

ADDENDA —Notes Biographical Sketches - - Incidents — Statistics of regiment Rosters, etc 345-445